Emergency transportation has been suspended for the safety of our citizens and first responders. Emergency Services will still be available for life threatening situations.

Orange County is still expecting more rainfall over night but we want to assure the citizens that we will be available as soon we can safely begin making our way into the neighborhoods.

All calls for assistance that were already made today will be prioritized in the morning and first responders will be answering those calls to bring people to dry ground.

If you have a life threatening emergency, please call 9-1-1.
